

Appraisal Templates

MD Guide

How to build department-specific KPIs, questions, and scoring rules for performance appraisals.

1. Why This Exists

Previously, every appraisal used one fixed set of generic questions — the same list for an Accounts Receivable clerk, an IT technician, or a driver. It didn't reflect what each role actually does.

With Appraisal Templates, you now decide — department by department — what questions employees actually answer, and how those answers are scored, using the Situation-Task-Action-Result (STAR) method.

2. Where To Find It

In the left sidebar, under Performance, you'll see a new item: Appraisal Templates. It only appears for your account — no one else in the organization sees or can use it.

This link only appears for the MD account, at the bottom of the Performance section.

3. Building a Template — Step by Step

1 Choose the Department

● DEPARTMENT

Finance / Accounting

Job title (optional)

No template yet — this will create a new one.

Select the department (e.g. “Finance / Accounting”). Optionally type a specific job title — leave it blank if the same template should apply to everyone in the department.

TIP For Accounting, create two separate templates — one for “Accounts Receivable” and one for “Accounts Payable” — since each role has its own questions.

2 Write a Welcome Message

● WELCOME MESSAGE

An intro message employees in this department see before starting their self-review...

This is the first thing the employee sees. Use it to set expectations — e.g. reminding them to answer using the STAR method (Situation, Task, Action, Result).

3 Choose the Reviewer Chain

● REVIEWER CHAIN

- ☒ Require manager review
- ☐ Require department head review
- ☐ Require HR review

Final MD sign-off is always required and cannot be turned off.

Decide which review stages this department's appraisals go through, beyond Self-Review (always first) and your Final Sign-off (always last). Enable Department Head and/or HR review to insert them into the chain.

4

Set the Scoring Rules

SCORING RULES

Self/Manager Balance: 20% self / 80% manager

Gap Alert Threshold (points)

15

Set how much weight the employee's self-review carries vs. their manager's assessment (default 20/80), and how many points of difference between the two triggers a flag for your attention (default 15).

5

Add 2–3 KPIs, Each With 2–4 Questions

Collections & Cash Flow

Manage receivables and protect company cash flow

How do I manage receivables and reduce the average collection time (DSO)?

Situation: 15% Task: 10% (fixed) Action: 60% (fixed) Result: 15%

Am I proactive in following up on unpaid balances with clients?

Situation: 15% Task: 10% (fixed) Action: 60% (fixed) Result: 15%

Add each KPI's title and 2–4 reflection questions. Each question is scored with the STAR method — the Situation and Result sliders adjust between 10–20% (Task and Action are fixed at 10% and 60%, matching the guidelines document).

Create Template

Click Create Template (or Update Template if one already exists). The template, its reviewer chain, and its scoring rules are all live for the next appraisal cycle.

4. What Happens Next

- ✓ The next appraisal cycle for that department shows employees your exact questions, not the generic list.
- ✓ Employees answer each question using four STAR ratings (Situation, Task, Action, Result).
- ✓ The appraisal is routed through exactly the reviewer stages you enabled.
- ✓ Large self/manager score gaps beyond your threshold get flagged for your attention.
- ✓ The suggested final score reflects your self/manager balance, not a fixed default.

IMPORTANT

A template only applies to cycles started after it's created. Employees already mid-cycle finish on the old rules — nothing in progress is disrupted.

5. Recommended First Steps

- 1 Create the "Accounting Assistant — Accounts Receivable" template from the shared guidelines.
- 2 Create the "Accountant — Accounts Payable" template the same way.
- 3 Start a test appraisal cycle for that department and review what an employee sees.
- 4 Once satisfied, extend the same approach to other departments.
